

THE WOLFFS.

THE BUXOM MADAM GIVES FURTHER TESTIMONY

And Peterson Tells His Story—The Circumstances of the Shooting Reviewed and Re-viewed—An All-day Session—To Be Continued To-day.

The trial of the Wolffs and Peterson was resumed yesterday morning. The direct examination of Mrs. Wolff was continued. Mrs. Wolff testified: Wilson deceived us in saying my husband could get work in San Juan. When I charged him with this he said that he was in love with me and wanted us to stop over. He said that when a man is in love he has a right to take any measures to win success.

District Attorney Dupuy then cross-examined the witness. He asked her first about her prior life and her conduct before she came to San Juan. These questions were objected to and not allowed by the Court.

The witness then testified, under the cross-examination, to the following facts: When we landed at San Juan it was 6 o'clock. The men had been unloading ties. We then all went to the cabin, where we staid. Wilson staid at the hotel the first three days. He then said it cost him too much and came to the cabin. He slept in one division with Wolff and Peterson. We made up our minds to leave the town about the third day, as there was no suitable work. We had the things packed up and were going away, when Wilson brought a man who gave Wolff and Peterson work on the bathhouse. They worked there six or seven days. They were then going to build a store for a man, when, on account of Wilson's threats, they left and all went to Santa Ana.

When it was understood that Wilson was coming back to sleep, head Peterson made a little canvas addition to the cabin on the outside. It was for baggage or may have been for Wilson to sleep in. The 3d day of May was the first day I saw Wilson drunk. He was drunk thereafter every day up to the 10th.

The day Wilson asked me for the $5 I had already let him have $1 in the morning. My husband overheard him and said that no man would try to borrow money that way from a woman. Wilson then came in and choked him.

In answer to questions by the District Attorney the witness testified that Wolff was assaulting her, and that Wilson interfered to protect her.

When Wilson choked my husband, Peterson and I were in the cabin. Wilson entered, when Wilson turned and ordered him out of the house. He turned to me and said: "G—d— you woman, get out of the way or you will get the same." He then told Peterson to get out, and he did so. Wilson was drunk, the rest sober. After Peterson was gone Wilson attacked my husband. He called him all sorts of names. I cried and the baby cried and Wilson stopped. I then ordered my husband out of the cabin. I could not go, as the tide was up and I would have to walk through a foot of water. This was in the evening. About 9 o'clock Peterson came back. Wilson drew his knife and went to see who it was. I asked that Peterson stay there, as it would prevent talk. Wilson consented.

The witness was then examined as to the knife in Wilson's possession. Attorney Dupuy produced a knife much like a bread-knife, and asked the witness if that was the one. She thought it was something like it.

Peterson went to work the next morning. Wilson and I had a conversation about the rumormongers of the night before. I told Wilson he was wrong, and he said he would go down and make it all right. Wilson came back and said: "Your husband don't want you to live with him any longer. He had better get to a justice and get a divorce." My husband told me that Wilson had told him lies about me; that I wanted to go back on him. I told him that Wilson was a liar. This was in German, and made Wilson mad. He said we should talk nothing but English or Spanish when we were in his house. This was on Thursday or Friday, about May 11th. My husband went to get a team to take my things away. Wilson put his arms around me and kissed me and said he would like to sleep with me, if only for a little while. He said Wolff was no man. He could kill him with one finger. He held up his knife and said it might come very handy some day. At half past 12 Peterson and I left on foot. I went the same day to San Juan, and stopped at the Taylor House. This was on Saturday. I returned on Sunday, and found my husband at San Juan. Capistrano. He was surprised to see me. I told him that Mendelsohn's for dinner. We were nowhere else. About 2 p.m. my husband was taken sick. He was delirious till 5 the next morning. Mendelsohn and I went to San Juan-by-the-Sea with a team on Monday. We got Peterson there and returned. He was not drunk. Peterson did not say of my husband: "Let the d—n fool alone; let him die." I did not say: "Do you want to disgrace me?" When we returned my husband was still sick. I had a strong black coffee and lemon water. Mrs. Mendelsohn said strong coffees was the best thing. The matter was with his stomach. My husband wanted Wilson to leave the town, but Peterson and Mendelsohn advised him to let him alone and leave the town. We all went to Santa Ana. There we engaged a house. On Tuesday Peterson went back to San Juan for freight. I don't know where my husband went. He and Peterson came back together. The furniture came and we got it into the house. This was on the 16th of May. My husband went to San Juan after some screws for the stove. The two men came back on the 17th. On the 22d we arranged to go to San Juan. We started on the 23d about 6 a.m. At between 10 and 11 we passed Wilson at Capistrano, and drove to San Juan-by-the-Sea.

When Wilson came up to the wagon by the hotel he was intoxicated. He asked about Santa Ana, and I answered him. We drove around the hotel and looked at the horses. Wilson met us behind the hotel. He said to my husband: "You had better look out. I don't rest till I see you dead before my feet." My husband replied: "I don't want any more trouble with you. Come around before the hotel where all can see us."

The witness then repeated the circumstances of the shooting nearly as given by her on the direct examination. She also said: "My husband had his pistol ever since we were married. Peterson had his pistol ever since I knew him, about three years."

Wilson asked for rent for the cabin. We offered to pay for it, but Wilson would not take anything. I said I would pay when we got some money. When the shooting occurred, I remember nothing after the first two shots. Wolff was two feet from Wilson when the second shot was fired.

Attorney Dupuy then took a cane and a two-foot rule and had the witness place him at the distance the two men were apart. It proved to be between two and three feet. Witness resuming: I saw no life that day in Wilson's hand. When we walked back to the team my husband and Peterson were much excited. My husband was very pale and could hardly get into the wagon. Peterson stood very much.

The witness was then cross-examined as to the circumstances of the arrest. She testified that she said: "He did the shooting, and he was driven to it. He could get no redress from Judge Bacon."

I may have told Wilson got what he deserved. I don't remember that I spoke of Wilson kissing me or writing letters to me. I did a great deal of talking to save my husband's life. I did not see my husband step back when Wilson advanced, as he was behind me. I know, however, that he did so.

Afternoon Session. Mrs. Wolff again took the stand, and Mr. Stephens asked her a few questions: I did not see the flash or smoke of the pistol. I saw a black spot on Wilson's coat where the bullet hit him.

Alfred E. Peterson was next sworn. He testified: I came to San Juan-by-the-Sea on the 30th of April last on my way to San Diego on the schooner La Noya. The schooner stopped at San Juan to unload ties. Wilson and a Mr. Kelly came aboard. Wilson said San Juan was going to have a boom, and we had better stop there, and we promised to get us work there, and we landed with our things. Wilson offered us his cabin, and we went there. Wilson went to a hotel.

I was going on the third day to Capistrano to get a tent. Wilson said I need not, as I could use his cabin. I said I would rather have a place of my own. On the next day Wilson said it cost too much to room at the hotel. It was arranged that he should sleep in the cabin. All went well until the 6th of May, when Wolff and I were in Potter's tent. Wilson began packing at Wolff. He was under the influence of liquor. We walked away to the cabin. On the 10th of May, in the evening, Mrs. Wolff was telling Mr. Wolff that Wilson was asking her for money to pay some liquor bills. At that moment Wilson rushed in and said he wanted no such talking there. He then grabbed Wolff by the throat. Mrs. Wolff interfered, but Wilson told her to shut up or she would get the same. He ordered me out of the house. He said to Wolff that he would kill him yet. I went out when ordered, and walked around for awhile. After awhile I came back to the cabin. Wilson was there, asked for my blankets. Mr. Wolff asked me to stay. Wilson said it was all right. I stayed there all night. Wolff did not come back that night. I met him next day at the bathhouse where we worked. During the next forenoon Wilson came and called Wolff down to speak to him. They spoke a few words, and Wilson walked off toward the cabin. I went to the hotel to dinner. I did not see Wolff again that afternoon. That evening I saw him at the hotel. We arranged to get the things away from the cabin. I went there with a team, but Wilson would not give them up. He said that he wanted some money for rent. I told him that I had no money, and he said: "You had better get a divorce and be clear of her."

Wolff subsequently went to San Juan and on Monday Mr. Mendelsohn and Mrs. Wolff came after me. I went to Capistrano with them and found Wolff there sick. Wolff went before Judge Bacon to get out a warrant against Wilson, but was advised not to. We all three went to Santa Ana the same day to get a house there. We got one the next day.

I went back to San Juan-by-the-Sea to get the things shipped by freight to Santa Ana. I stayed there a few days. I worked on the pavilion a day and a half. I was trying to get a contract to work on a house there. On Monday noon Mr. Wolff came down to see about the contract, which I did not get. On Monday forenoon I went to Potter's saloon and met Wilson there. He asked how the Wolffs were getting on. He said: "I would like to see Wolff down here. I would fix him." I asked: "What for?" He said: "None of your business." I walked back to the hotel and saw Wolff coming from the train. We went to dinner. Wolff asked about the contract. I said the best thing he could do was to go back to Santa Ana, as Wilson had threatened his life. I agreed to go back with him. We got to Santa Ana that evening on a construction train, and next day fixed up the house with the furniture. That evening I said I would go back to San Juan-by-the-Sea and straighten up some business matters. The next morning I got a one-seated wagon. At Mrs. Wolff's request I changed it for a two-seated wagon, and we all three went down with the baby. I don't remember any threats but these I have mentioned. Wilson had said several times that he thought the world of Wolff. I paid no attention, regarding it rather as a joke.

One day Wilson wanted me to take a letter for him to Mrs. Wolff. I suggested his mailing it, but he said: "No, I want to make sure of the letter getting to her, as I love her and like her and want her to know it." I refused to carry it. He urged me, but I would not. I saw the letter addressed to Mrs. Wolff.

I know Mr. Pope, the station agent at San Juan. His feelings toward Wolff and myself were unfriendly. The trouble arose from his shipping our furniture by express instead of freight. I asked him why he did so. Pope got mad and said it was none of my business. I said it was, as the difference of cost was a great deal to me. He told me to shut up or he would make me. He ordered me away and said he would get even with me at some time. Wolff was present, but said nothing. I don't remember anything about opprobrious epithets.

I knew that Wilson had a knife. I saw him lay it on the table at one time. I saw him also put it under his pillow on two evenings. The next morning he put it in his pants—in front. The handle did not show when so worn. I don't know any of the business he had requiring a knife like that. The witness here examined the knife produced in the morning. He thought it was Wilson's.

Wilson was boring a well at that time. I don't know of his going fishing any. He was fond of liquors and rowdiness when he was drunk. When we went to San Juan, Wolff had some money matters to settle with Mr. Wilson. It was a matter of some clothes and the rent and a dollar loaned.

The witness then described the trip to Santa Ana and the circumstances up to the shooting. His evidence was substantially the same as that given by Mrs. Wolff the day before.

When we met Wilson behind the hotel he said: "Wolff, you had better look out for yourself or I will fix you." Wolff said he didn't want anything to do with him. If he had anything to say he had better come around to the front of the hotel where people could see us. In front of the hotel Wilson stood and faced us. Wolff said: "You have kissed my wife twice unbeknownst to me." Wilson said: "No, I in low tone. Wolff then said: "You have written her letters." Wilson said that he wrote her a letter to explain things, but Peterson would not take it. Wolff then asked him: "Do you love my wife?" Wilson said: "Yes, I'll kill you for it, I love her." Just then Wilson put his hand to where he carried his knife forward. A furniture came and we got it into the house. This was on the 16th of May. My husband went to San Juan after some screws for the stove. The two men came back on the 17th. On the 22d we arranged to go to San Juan. We started on the 23d about 6 a.m. At between 10 and 11 we passed Wilson at Capistrano, and drove to San Juan-by-the-Sea.

Come around before the hotel where all can see us."

A vote for the new charter is a vote for progress. A vote against it is a vote for stagnation.

The new charter is a carefully-devised and public-spirited document. It deserves the support of all good citizens.

Don't allow hired advocates to persuade you to vote against the new charter. Their arguments are bought and paid for.

When we are going to get that branch postoffice? The cry for it becomes louder and louder, and will increase as the clouds lower and the mud deepens.

WORKINGMEN are particularly interested in the adoption of the new charter. Its defeat would indefinitely postpone many contemplated public improvements, which would put a large amount of money in circulation.

WERE THE TIMES not fully convinced that the new charter is a good instrument, which will conduce to the prosperity, good government and progress of the city, we would not advise its adoption. The Times advises all its readers, who are voters, to deposit affirmative ballots on Saturday.

The rainy season having been officially inaugurated by a pretty fair downpour, we see no reason why the authorities should further delay the tearing-up of First street for the purpose of paving it. Judge O'Melveny says he is ready to keep the street nice and damp. En avant, Messieurs Councilmen!

The Herald was the only journal in Los Angeles which opposed the charter submitted to the voters of Los Angeles a few months ago. The features objected to at that time by the Herald have been removed in the new instrument. The Herald now finds fresh objections. Has the paper which started the "Los Angeles boom" changed over to the side of the fossils, and become opposed to all progress?

A CORRESPONDENT of the Tribune, who signs himself "Bottles," and had probably been sampling the contents of his nom de plume before he rushed into print, wants to know, you know, why we should pile oil to Los Angeles, instead of starting manufacturing in the oil districts. We shall now expect some inspired idiot, under the signature of "Barrels," to ask why we can't start manufacturing in Pittsburgh, where there is any quantity of oil.

Information comes to us from the most unimpeachable sources that in various parts of this State the political friends and agents of Gov. Hill have made direct offers to local Republican managers to trade Cleveland votes in return for votes for Hill. There is scarcely a section of the State in which the Hill agents have not made propositions of this kind during the past week. Some of the men who have made the offers to trade stand very close to the Governor; being, in fact, the same agents as he used in negotiating the aqueduct deal, and in inducing the Aqueduct Commission to award the contract for section 12 to Clark & O'Brien, in order that his nephew, Clark, might be paid from the $30,000 which was thereby needlessly taken from the city treasury. These agents have not merely hinted at trading, but have, in many instances, fairly begged local Republican managers to give Republican votes for Hill in return for the same number of votes for Cleveland. In all cases to which our information applies, these offers have been declined, with the natural result of making the Hill friends more open and desperate in their appeals in other quarters.

Unless a great and unforeseen change should come over New York politics, between now and election day, that State may be considered as reasonably safe for Harrison.

At the unveiling of a monument to Gen. Pickett at Richmond, Va., week before last, the Confederate veterans carried in the procession a rebel flag in the face of the strongest protests of northern soldiers who were present with them as fraternal guests. The spirit of rebellion was stronger than that of courtesy, and northern soldiers, invited to participate in the exercises of the occasion, were insulted by the sight of this old rebel flag carried before their faces. This is the kind of loyalty that is fostered by the present Democratic Administration, and these are the men who are honored with places of trust and responsibility under the Government which they sought to destroy. The strength and the hope of the Democratic party is today in this same "solid South," which dares to flaunt in the face of the millions of the loyal citizens of this Republic the treasonable rag for whose defense the South plunged the Nation into four years of bloody war, and fighting against which three hundred thousand brave men poured out their heart's blood and today sleep in the graves of martyrs.

The Republican party has always been the friend of the soldier. Disabled soldiers, capable of holding positions under the Government, were given such places. It was a just recognition of the service they had rendered to their country. A Democratic administration has in a large number of cases removed these soldiers and given them places to ex-rebels. They were removed, not for any dereliction of duty, nor for lack of capacity or of faithfulness, but simply because the Administration has no love for the Union soldier, and because this is one of the best methods of making the South solid for the reelection of President Cleveland.

Well might it be said that "republicans are ungrateful" if the policy of Cleveland were the expression of the popular will of the people. That it is not to be demonstrated at the polls in November, when the voice heard at the ballot-box will be a voice demanding justice to our country's defenders, justice and protection to the laboring man of the United States, and a steadfast adherence to "a government of the people, for the people and by the people."

"News."
 A large amount of the misery which the long-suffering editor of a daily journal is called upon to endure arises from the persistent, relentless and blushing attempts of brass-mounted individuals to avoid paying toll to the business office, and get their trade announcements into the paper as "news." The arrival in town of a corn doctor, the opening of a new hash factory, the engagement of a fat woman at a side show—all is "news," according to these peculiar people, and what is worse, they are willing to sacrifice an hour of the editor's time to prove it. Here is the latest valuable contribution, handed in for our local columns:

Miss — of Frankfort, Ky., well known in the East as an artistic milliner, has arrived in the city and is employed at the — street.

Miss — is gently, but firmly, informed that she will have to pine in comparative obscurity unless she is willing to pungle up at the rate of thirty cents a line for the above to our coarse, brutal and altogether unsentimental business department.

In an editorial on the new charter, published in these columns yesterday, some errors occurred changing the meaning of the writer. In one place the word "members" was incorrectly used instead of "numbers." The sentence should have read: Efficiency in such bodies does not come from mere numbers, but from character, ability, experience and organization. In another place incorrect punctuation altered the meaning intended. The sentences referred to are correctly printed below. As a matter of fact, when the whole responsibility of the proper representation of the ward is vested in a single councilman, we believe that the incentive for him to perform his duty with zeal and fidelity will be increased. With the whole responsibility upon his shoulders, any councilman apt to do better work than he would were the responsibility divided.

THE "Old Roman" recently gave this guarded answer to a representative of a Republican journal who asked his opinion regarding the outcome of the political contest. It is not difficult to read between the lines a feeling of grave doubt as to the success of his party:

"It is a difficult question for a man in my position to answer. People will not tell the truth, for fear it will hurt their feelings. Everybody, Republicans and Democrats alike, when they meet me assure me that success is certain. That is the average of courtesy. But I have endeavored to look over the field for myself, and have tried not to be deceived by false hopes, and according to the advice from my best friends, am assured that the Democratic party will win."

THE Tribune prints a long, clumsy and transparent attempt to excuse its course toward Gen. Vandever. Qua sciret sciret. The fact remains that the Tribune attempted to knife the General, in its usual cowardly, underhand way, and, finding that attempt unsuccessful, is now pretending to be the General's best and only friend in this section. The support of "the only pure Republican paper" is a dangerous thing—more so than its enmity. No sagacious man will consciously entrust his political or financial fortunes to the hands of thieves, robbers and scoundrels.

THE old belief that large fortunes do not last in this country beyond one generation does not appear to be well founded. A New York correspondent says it is the exception, and not the rule, for the sons of rich men in that city to squander their patrimony. The Vanderbilts, Astors and Goetschs are as thrifty as their ancestors, while Peter Cooper's wealth is in good hands and none of Jay Gould's sons will throw away money. In view of the rapid rate at which wealth increases in this country, we may expect soon to see estates in single hands which will far eclipse anything in the Old World.

It is asserted on unquestionable authority that the Democratic party receive more than a million dollars of English money for the reelection of Cleveland and for the purpose of establishing free trade in the United States. Will the workmen of America allow this purpose to be accomplished?

PROPERTY-OWNERS are interested in the adoption of the new charter. It will enhance the value of their property at least ten per cent. immediately, and far more than that within a couple of years.

THERE is a possibility that Missouri will hereafter be classed with the doubtful States. Stranger things have happened.

LOS ANGELES is no longer a village. We have outgrown our swaddling clothes. Vote for the new charter!

THE new charter will stimulate public improvements, and enable us to make a more rapid growth.

AMUSEMENTS.

AT THE ORPHEUM.—A 7th Soldier drew a pretty fair house last night, notwithstanding the rain. The play went off with its usual smoothness, and the applause was as hearty as on previous nights.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—Next Monday evening, October 23d, at the request of the Academy of Music, the following program will be given: Matinee, M. Philippe Salvi will introduce for the first time in America his world-famous singing-room Ensemble. The matinee, during the last few months, has been deluged with large audiences in Mexico and South America. From Mexico to the Pacific, the Ensemble has been the strongest testimonials from the press and public. His method, and its results go very far to prove that what man in his vanity is pleased to call only the instinct of nature is in reality very close to the reasoning power. He claims as his own exclusive birthright, the "art of singing." The management of Giovanni E. Gonzalez and embraces 100 voices taken from different nations. Reserved seats can be secured at Ellis's drug store, 27 South Spring street.

ELLIS'S DRUG STORE.—Tonight occurs the second Ellis concert. The greatest interest is felt in it all quarters, and the secretary is besieged by requests for extra admission cards, which he obligingly refuses, both on account of the rules governing the club and the capacity of the hall.

IT is to be again fondly hoped that full dress will be the rule, and not the exception.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.—A bad accident happened Tuesday afternoon to little Martha Hafen, 4 years old, daughter of L. Hafen, superintendent of the M. Keller estate, who lives on Pico street, adjoining the city hall. The child was playing in the barn when she got her hand caught in a straw-cutter and three fingers on the right hand were dreadfully mangled. Dr. Griswold dressed the wound, and he thinks that the fingers may be saved.

AT ANAHEIM.—One of the most successful Republican meetings of the campaign was held at Anaheim Tuesday evening, there being fully 1000 people present. May, Donnell spoke over two hours, and was most enthusiastically received. Mr. Muesey of Pomona followed in a rousing German speech.

YELLOW FEVER (Pa.), Oct. 17.—The following is the official bulletin for the 24 hours ended at 6 o'clock this evening: New cases 23; total number of cases 10,395; total number of deaths 32. Advice from Ferdinandia says there were 32 new cases and 2 deaths there October 16th, and on the 16th 37 new cases and 3 deaths.

WILL NOT FIGHT.—New York, Oct. 17.—Advices from Montreal say that the match between Jake Kilrain and the "unknown" has fallen through for the reason that the syndicate backing the "unknown" refused to divulge his name until within 15 days of the date set for the battle.

POLICEMAN KILLED.—MOOREHEAD (Minn.), Oct. 17.—Officer Pete Poulsen was shot through the heart and killed while attempting to arrest a hoodlum named Murphy today. The hoodlum was then fatally wounded by Officer Thompson, who was with Poulsen.

ARRIVED.—HONOLULU, Oct. 17.—Arrived: Albany from San Francisco.

 Another Big Talk with the Visiting Sioux.
 The Great Father Makes a New Bid for Their Lands.
 An Adjournment Resolution Introduced in the Senate.
 An Alleged Abuse of the Franking Privilege Given Rise to a Heated Debate in the House—The President's Voice: More Pension Bills.

By Telegraph to The Times.
 WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—[By the Associated Press.] The Secretary of the Interior today met the Sioux chiefs by appointment and carefully explained the change which the Government had decided to recommend to Congress, provided the Indians signify their willingness to accept the law with proposed amendments. Secretary Vilas spoke for about two and a half hours, fully explaining every point. He complimented the Indians on their many speeches and declared that the Government was deeply interested in their welfare. The proposed changes are: First, the Government will place to the credit of the Indians $1 for every acre of land disposed of to homesteaders during the first three years after the passage of the law, and 75 cents per acre for all lands so disposed of during the next two years and 50 cents per acre for all lands disposed of after the expiration of these five years. Instead of $1,000,000 being now set apart for the benefit of the Indians, $2,000,000 shall be so set apart to draw interest at 5 per cent. Out of this amount $20 shall be paid to each man, woman and child within six months of the passage of the act. This is in addition to payments which the present act calls for. Instead of being supplied with oxen, the Government proposes that each head of a family be supplied with a pair of American mares and a double harness. By the proposed amendments, the Santees and Flatheads are prevented from sharing with the Sioux in the proceeds of the contemplated sale. The last amendment provides that all allotments shall be free from tax for taxation for 25 years. Other minor changes are made.

The chiefs took the matter under consideration and will report to the Secretary tomorrow whether they will recommend to their tribe the rejection or acceptance of the law as amended.

The Indians held a session of a few minutes' duration after leaving the Interior Department for the purpose of ascertaining each other's sentiments. A decision was reached. Tomorrow morning they will meet and decide what answer to give the Secretary.

MAILS CARRIED BY STREET CARS.
 The American Street Railway Association met today. The delegates present represented nearly every city of prominence. President Holmes of Chicago delivered the annual address. The subject of carrying mails by street cars was considered by a committee. Several roads running between postoffices have secured the designation of United States mail carriers by the Government. The only objection to the plan is that it occurs from wagons and other traffic. The committee has consulted with the postoffice authorities, and it was decided by the latter that such designation shall be given only to those lines running between postoffices. The suggestion of the committee that letter-boxes be placed in street cars to facilitate the distribution of mails was favorably received by the authorities, and suitable boxes are now being devised for this purpose. The strike question was vigorously handled by the convention.

WASHINGTON (D. C.), Oct. 17.—[By the Associated Press.] Senate.—The Senate at the beginning of business on the Republican side was represented by eight Senators and on the Democratic side by 10. The Committee on Foreign Relations was authorized to sit during the recess for the investigation of the La Abra claim against Mexico.

The Senate then resumed the consideration of the Tariff Bill, and was addressed by Mr. Teller.

He would not, he said, have ventured to trouble the Senate with any remarks if the Secretary of the Treasury had not seen fit recently to make some statements in a public speech from the steps of the sub-treasury in New York which, he thought, were not supported by the record, and needed contradiction. The Secretary had fallen into the very general mistake that the interests of Wall street were the interests of the whole country, and that if the acts of the Administration were in accordance with Wall street ideas they must be necessary in the interests of the whole people. He (Mr. Teller) denied that such inference was correct. What he complained of was that the financial policy of the Administration had been conducted on a Wall-street basis and that the Government was controlled by Wall-street influences and Wall-street interests, to the entire disregard of the great interests of the people.

Mr. Teller having referred to the attempts of the Administration to suppress the free-dollars movement, he then turned to the Democratic Senators and Representatives for their failure to oppose them. Mr. Pugh asked him whether the bulk of the southern Democratic vote was represented by silver coinage, and whether they were not now charged with being conspirators in the movement to destroy northern industries.

Mr. Teller replied that he had on more than one occasion given due consideration to the Democratic Senators and their enlightened and advanced position on the silver coinage question, but when he saw the same Senators now supporting the Administration with direct or indirect opposition to their former avowed policy on that question he was amazed. He characterized the course of the Treasury Department in not using the surplus for the purchase of 3 per cent. bonds as "inimicly of the grocer's character," and said that more money had been loaned to the Government than had ever been loaned to any other government in the world, but that course had been in the interest of the bondholder, of the money-lender, of the money-grabber, and not in the interest of the poor man. The economic policy of the Administration did not, he said, commend itself to the American people.

At the close of Mr. Teller's speech, Mr. Allison offered a concurrent resolution for a recess of Congress from Saturday next to November.

Mr. Cockrell opposed the recess, and suggested that it would be much better to provide for a final adjournment, with the understanding that there would be no Christmas holidays, and that the Tariff Bill would then be pressed to final action.

After some discussion the resolution went over till tomorrow.

Mr. Morgan proceeded to address the Senate on the Tariff Bill. He referred to Mr. Allison's recent adjournment as a piece of finesse to cover the death of the bill. The fact was that the Republican Senators did not intend to pass the bill, and he would have no objection to its being so stated. The Senate Bill was a mere masquerade of monopoly, disguised in the innocent appearance of fair dealing and justice to the country. He quoted some statements made by Mr. Beck, and declared with emphasis that the Senate of the United States was the subsidized slave of monopolies.

Mr. Allison desired to make a denial of the facts stated by Mr. Beck, but Mr. Morgan declined to yield, because Mr. Beck was not present.

Without action on the bill the Senate adjourned.

HOUSE.—The Speaker laid before the House 12 pension bills. One was referred to the Committee on Invalid Pensions.

Mr. Cox of New York, to a question of privilege, sent to the Clerk's desk and had read an editorial from the New York Tribune charging him with sending out a package referred to. He declared the signature of his name on it to be a forgery.

Mr. Cox added that at his request the Postoffice Department investigated the matter, and the Inspector found that the package was sent without Mr. Cox's authority and was a forgery. That must appear that the package which was sent to Mrs. Beebe, postmistress at Apalachin, N. Y., was authorized to be mailed at either the national or State Department headquarters in New York, and that the name of the forger could not be discovered, as the Tribune refused to give up the package.

Mr. Cox added that unfrankable matter had also been sent under the frank of Congressman Hovey of Indiana, Senator Keane of New Jersey and Senator Stewart of Pennsylvania. They were notified, and the first named replied that the frank was authorized by him. The other two had not yet replied.

Mr. Cox said that he had brought the matter before the House with a view of having action taken which would prevent the violation of the franking privilege in the future. Unfrankable matter is still being sent out by Senator Quay and others, notwithstanding the Postmaster-General called their attention to the fact that the gentleman had that such documents were being sent out.

Mr. Cox stated that he had information from the Postmaster-General. The gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Mansur) told him that Missouri was flooded with such documents, under the frank of Senator Quay. He had in his hand certain documents directed to R. H. Hurd, Newberry, N. C., which were not frackable, but bore the frank of Senator Quay. Continuing, Mr. Cox said the Tribune made him a handsome apology on the 30th ult. He knew that the article was libelous, but he thought the matter would be developed after election, and he rested easy over it. But the Tribune had since published a facsimile of the frank referred to in size so that the signature was about the size of his signature. He had no knowledge that his colleague, Mr. de Lamo, who was a member of the Tribune, was mixed up in the business. He hoped he was not. He had notified his colleague to be here, but he had not arrived.

Mr. Henderson of Iowa said he knew Iowa was flooded with documents such as were in the package to which Mr. Cox referred. He did not know whether they were sent under the frank of Senator Quay or not, and suggested that the Postmaster-General had been swift to give the Republican illustrators, but refrained from giving Democratic ones.

Mr. Payne of Pennsylvania said he was sorry Mr. Cox reflected on Senator Quay. The documents sent to Mr. Hurd, who was in Carolina were extracts from the Congressional Record, with subheads added. He did not think this made the matter unfrankable.

After discussion, during which it appeared that other members of Congress are sending matter with subheads, the matter dropped.

Mr. Kilgore of Texas offered a resolution providing for final adjournment on the 29th inst. Referred to Ways and Means Committee.

LOCOMOTIVE ENGINEERS.
 The Brotherhood in Session—Chief Arthur's Address.

RICHMOND (Va.), Oct. 17.—The twenty-fifth annual international convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers met this morning. Committees were appointed and recess taken until 2:30 o'clock. At that time the convention reassembled in the Richmond Hotel, where the Mayor addressed by Mayor Ellison. Speeches were heard from Gov. Lee and others and reading of the annual address by Chief Arthur.

Regarding the brotherhood's recent strike Arthur said: "Upon the threshold of the new year we have witnessed the severest struggle in the history of the brotherhood, namely, the strike on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy system. Never, even in our earliest days, when the powers then in existence strove to crush the brotherhood with such stubborn resistance against simple right and justice. Every known expedient was tried to bring about a settlement between the company and men, only to meet with the utmost indifference, and we were forced to yield to the inhuman and selfish demands of the company. The president or general manager shown the slightest disposition to treat the men fairly, as the managers of other roads have done, would have been regarded as a traitor. Surely there was no good cause why they ought not to pay their engineers and firemen as much as the competitors. They both admitted that they had as good a class of men as there were on any road in the country. We know as a rule that there is nothing to be gained by resorting to tactics. They are the base of every organization that engages in them. It is and has ever been the policy of both brotherhoods to avoid them, and to meet them as possible. Mr. Perkins and Mr. Stone are the first railway officials we were unable to settle with during the past 15 years, and when we agreed to submit our claims to any three general managers in Chicago and abide their decision, and they were unable to do so, we were forced to strike. Arthur said he would never regard the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy strike as a failure, for on the part of the brotherhood would serve to purge the brotherhood of the dangerous element, and to add largely to its numbers. It was extremely mortifying, he said, to think that any of the men of the organization should so far forget themselves as to become involved in any scheme of strike or destruction of property. The brotherhood condemns all acts of lawlessness, and will punish the guilty.

More Outrages by Chicago Strikers.
 CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—More outrages are reported today on new men in the employ of the North Side Company. In the afternoon John Smith, alias John Bull, had his jaw broken by a mob, and was otherwise seriously hurt. He was just endeavoring to leave the city. This evening W. H. Robinson, a gripman who came from Kansas City, was fearfully beaten and kicked about the head by five unknown men. No cars were run on the Halsted road or Garfield-avenue lines, or on the Wells-street cable lines after dark tonight, it being deemed unsafe both by the crews and passengers to do so.

Dakota Farmers Starving.
 MAXBARD, Oct. 17.—M. E. Hermann of this city, who has been investigating the condition of the farmers of Ramsey county, Dak., reported to be starving to death, returned last night. He says 70 families are absolutely destitute of food and fuel, and something must be done immediately. The condition of the people is beyond description. Men, women and children are in rags. They have not a cent of money in the world. Their crops were totally destroyed by the drought, and their land, stock and farm implements are mortgaged. Absolute distress prevailed everywhere.

An Important Discovery.
 ITHACA (N. Y.), Oct. 17.—Edward Atkinson of the Boston Economist says a New England genius has recently discovered a cheap method of dissolving zinc by combining with hydrogen and water a solution called zinc water. This liquid applied to certain woods, notably white wood, makes them absolutely fire proof at low cost. Atkinson regards this discovery as one of the most important of the century, and that surely revolutionize fire insurance as well as immensely decrease the loss by fire.

Expelled from the Knights.
 PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.—A most important action by the Grand General Executive Committee of the Knights of Labor was taken today, when Thomas B. Barry, a former member of the board, was formally expelled from the order. Barry was accused of a series of abuses, and was suspended from duty last August. A month afterward he forwarded his resignation. This was not acted upon until today, when the board refused to accept it and expelled him.

Chicago Fruit Sales.
 CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—The East Fruit Company sold the cars of fruit as follows: Apples, $1.45; peaches, $2.10; cherries, $2.25; plums, $2.00; grapes, $2.50; pears, $2.00. Total, $18.35.

A Family Poisoned.
 ELSWORTH (Wis.), Oct. 17.—The entire family of Abel Olson was poisoned yesterday. One child is dead and others dangerously ill. Food is suspected.

Undesirable Immigrants.
 NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Among the immigrant arrivals on the steamship Spain today was a party of destitute men and women sent over by the Duke of Buckingham, England. They will be sent back. The steamer Britannic brought one Chinaman, the first who has attempted to land at this port in years. He will be returned.

 RUSSIA Anxious for an Alliance with Great Britain.
 Americans Receive Many Prizes at the Brussels Exposition.

Emperor William Witnesses an Impending Naval Pageant at Naples—The Disaster at Calais—More Serious Than at First Reported—Old World Items.

By Telegraph to The Times.
 ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 17.—[By Cable and Associated Press.] The rearranging of the Russian troops in the vicinity of the Austrian frontier is proceeding actively in response to movements of the Austrian forces. No special change in the relations between the two countries has taken place. The movement of the Russian troops is merely a measure of precaution.

The newspapers of this city again say that the entente cordiale with England is opportune owing to the coldness between Germany and England. Newsweek says an Anglo-Russian alliance would hasten the solution of questions now hindered by the rupture between Russia and England.

AMERICAN EXHIBITORS AT BRUSSELS.

ORPHANS' FAIR.

SECOND DAY OF THE CHARITABLE FAIR.

An Attractive Musical Programme Contributed to by Signorina Marchetti—A Handsome Tribute to the Booths and the Pretty Girls.

The Orphans' Fair is now running smoothly along the road to a pronounced financial success. All the booths are in full blast, and the throng that promenade the floor of Armory Hall form a brilliant spectacle to the many who occupy the lace-festooned gallery above.

Decorative costumes of the ladies set off their handsome forms and faces. Broomettes are in a vast majority, and their bright eyes and raven hair seem doubly attractive in their Zingara or Japanese costumes. The gentlemen do not appear in fancy dress, but promenade in sober evening dress.

A musical troupe of a high standard was offered last evening to the patrons of the fair. Those who delight in operatic melody as distinguished from the new Wagnerian high art school of discord, had reason to be thankful for the taste displayed in the selections by the artists who so kindly volunteered in aid of the cause of charity.

The first selection was a duet for piano and violin from Donizetti's La Favorite, arranged by Osmer, presided over by Prof. A. G. Gardner and Mrs. Marie Sellenheim. The audience listened to their mastery rendition with great interest.

Signorina Luisa Marchetti was then presented by Joseph Mesner, chairman of the Reception Committee. The lady is from San Francisco, and is spending a few months in the City of Angels. She has lately returned from a successful tour in Australia. She appeared in a dress of canary-colored satin with train, trimmed with English point lace and sprays of pansies. She wore diamonds, and a white plume swept over her black hair.

She sang the prelude cavatina from Ernest, and rendered the music of the great Verdi in a way to win the hearts of her audience. Her voice was loudly applauded, and bouquets were flung upon the stage.

In response, she gave Donizetti's cavatina, "In Questo Semplice Modico Asilo," with great expression. Her voice reaches the high G, and she sings with great ease. The Committee on Entertainment, through Mr. Mesner, presented the Signorina with an elaborate floral horseshoe and star, accompanied by resolutions of thanks for her services so kindly rendered to the Orphans' Fair. The resolutions also promised to reciprocate the compliment when Signorina Marchetti gives her entertainment to the patrons of the Los Angeles.

The resolutions were seconded by John Kenney, chairman; Joseph Mesner, B. W. Reeves, Andrew Miller, D. M. McGarry, Victor Fong, E. W. Schmitt, Frank J. Caprine and James C. Kays.

An intermission was then announced, and the audience resumed its promenade about the hall. They were well pleased and the booths did a good business.

A great many voting schemes are being got up to stimulate the inflow of silver into the treasury. One is the voting for the most popular newspaper of this city. The prize is a banner of white satin, trimmed with gold fringe, and pointed with pretty flowers. It will be very nice for the corps of the successful paper to carry on Sundays. J. K. Chalmers runs the ballot-boxes, and the vote is being cast.

Another blackboard contains the names of the four leading Catholic papers of the country. Mrs. Moore conducts the balloting for them, and the vote is being cast. The Monitor, followed closely by the Los Angeles Paper, the California Catholic.

A contest of societies for a large silk flag is open to sections A and B of the Young Men's Institute, and Ramona and Los Angeles paraders of the Native Sons. Bidding here has been very active.

A fine new buggy, now in the possession of the Sisters of Charity, is being voted to the most popular candidate for Sheriff. Thomas Lown, the Mary Anne, and the running neck and neck, backed by Andrew Mullin and Victor Fong, who drum up the voters and put their fingers into cigar boxes. The prohibition candidate is probably on the back of the blackboard.

Beside these voting devices, and others which will be serving out later on, all sorts of raffish are conducted at the different booths. Some very handsome articles have been donated, and the chances on them range from 10 to 50 cents each.

Among these the chief is, of course, the fine dinner set of 125 pieces, on which the chances are only 50 cents. The fish pond has a large doll, a house, with blue satin dress and train and a bridal veil, presented by J. H. Chalmers and dressed by Mrs. Garvey.

The national booth, draped with handsome flags, has a collection of most beautiful articles. The silver pitcher presented by Mr. Kays and the silver flower vases worked in chenille on violet velvet, the gift of Mrs. Childs, are both to be raffled for.

At the wheel of fortune Mrs. Desmond has a bronzed chair, with old gold plush, the gift of Watson & Wachtel, which is well worthy of notice. This, too, is to be raffled off.

A quilt of fine and curious workmanship, sent in Ireland, hangs at the back of the variety booth, and will go to some lucky individual.

The flower booth last night was a thing of beauty, and Mrs. Cooper deserves great credit for the taste displayed in the combinations of floral hues.

The postoffice was open and running, and though not as large as the Fort-street one, was far more accessible.

The soda and ice cream booths did a large business, and the hat stand netted $25 in two nights.

At 10 p.m. Prof. Gardner and Mrs. Sellenheim rendered selections from the Chimes of Normandy on the violin and piano, while the audience promenade to the music. Signorina Marchetti then gave a cavatina from Il Barbiere di Siviglia, and again was rewarded with floral tributes. She responded to an encore with the March of Stimmur, sang in Italian and with beautiful effect. The house applauded heartily, and soon after drifted away homeward.

Following is the programme for this evening:

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Voice of a Manufacturer.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] It is not strange at all that know the wild schemes to get rich, one off from the other, without producing anything, have had their day, and the sober reality dawns upon the popular mind that a law of Nature cannot be violated with impunity by more by communities than by individuals—I say it is not strange that some of our people begin to look about to see what can be done to pay this penalty and to ward off as far as possible its effects.

The above thoughts were suggested by an article in yesterday's TIMES, calling a meeting in the interest of manufacturers. Being asked to give my opinion as to what can be manufactured here successfully, and what are the principal requisites, I will say:

Five or six years ago, before the boom, this question was agitated, and quite a lively interest was taken. All sorts of inducements were offered, or supposed to be, by the "Manufacturers' Association," to induce capital to engage in manufacturing in Los Angeles. But just as soon as people commenced coming here with money the price of real estate commenced to go up, so that buying and selling dwarfed all other business, and the man that had started out in manufacturing was looked upon as a very useless encumbrance, and instead of encouraging him and making his taxes light, as he had been led to suppose would be done from resolutions of the Manufacturers' Association that all capital engaged in manufacturing should be exempted from taxation for ten years, an extra tax was imposed. The license tax, that had been left uncollected, was again enforced, and made double what it formerly was, and if per chance the manufacturer was compelled to leave a piece of machinery in the streets, and did not keep his walks swept and garnished for the real estate boomers to pass and repass without being even reminded that it was necessary in Los Angeles for a man to work for a living, an officer was at once sent for him, and he was walked up to the Judge's office to pay a fine.

Well, now, to get at what I started out to say about manufacturing, I have never been one to think that Los Angeles would ever become a great manufacturing city, for reasons that are apparent to every one who has given the subject any thought. The want of fuel, the want of the raw material and a limited market—these are the chief obstacles. To build up a large city dependent on manufacturing, in view of the many other resources we have. And, as they are developed, manufacturing will grow with them. There are many kinds of goods that can be shipped here in a semi-manufactured state, such portions as require much machine work being done before shipping. This would be manufacturing to the same extent as many of our eastern manufacturers do. There are carriages sold here in Los Angeles from eastern manufacturers that use no machinery at all; they buy their stock ready to put together. This is true of many other kinds of goods. I see no reason why manufacturing of this kind cannot be done quite extensively when labor gets settled down to business, which will be as soon as laborers can live as cheaply here as at the East.

This brings up a question for some one to answer: Why they cannot so live; is it the fault of the producer, or the fault of the consumer? It is just the same with the producer when he sells as when he buys; he drives the best bargain he can. The idea of importing home manufactures to enable the farmer to sell his produce to a better advantage leaves for his neighbor to do. Then, as I said before, it will take time to regulate these things. And the man that could not afford to be one to bring about these results slowly and surely but jumped into the estate whirl, good or bad, a fortune that he saw doating about for anyone to take, and went down just before he got his hand on it, gets but the penalty of the fixed law I referred to. But, should he be possessed of the proper grit, he will come out and shed his speculative and speculative speculations, and think it best to make slowly. He will in a short time come out a prosperous farmer, with all the comforts of life about him, in one of the most glorious countries the sun ever shined on, or should he be a good mechanic and settle down to business he will meet with like results. Then, and not till then, may we expect capital to be invested in manufacturing.

Peculiar Premium Awards.
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 15.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] In today's issue of THE TIMES appears a communication from one C. H. Cowdry, taking the Los Angeles County Pomological Society to task for not delivering exhibitors medals awarded them at the late fair.

Mr. Cowdry seems to take upon himself the alleged disappointment of some of the exhibitors. He says: "Now, I know of no gentleman who, after going to a great deal of expense in making an exhibit for the sake of receiving a medal, after being awarded the same have never received it, and other persons have received medals for articles on which no premium was awarded." Now, I know of no gentleman or lady who has been awarded medals who have entered any complaint. I have delivered medals to all the several committees on awards of the various departments of the fair, who have called for them, until the supply on hand was exhausted, and have informed all others that the society will obtain as soon as possible sufficient to fill all awards.

The objects of the society and its work are well known to the thousands of our fruit-growers in this and adjoining counties and our leading business advertisement of our natural products made annually by this society.

I cannot find Mr. Cowdry's name on our books of awards, neither in the city directory; hence I conclude he must be a new resident of our county, and he will call upon me I will be pleased to explain to him in detail all matters pertaining to the award of medals. My address and place of business is 115 West First street.

"Honor to whom honor is due."

President L. A. GAREY.

[Mr. Garey has also an opportunity to explain, if he can, how it was that an award was made to a notorious blackmailing "pictorial" sheet for the "best display," etc., when no premium was offered in the list for that sort of "production."—Ed. TIMES.]

Good large lots for sale in city, near street car line, and shade trees set on each lot. H. M. Ames, 9 N. Main street.

PASADENA.

OPENING OF THE BAPTIST ASSOCIATION MEETING.

Green Is Green—Painful Accident—Band of Hope Entertainment—Grand Traffic Debate—Baseball—Personal Notes.

PASADENA, Oct. 17.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] The Baptist Association is in session, the Sunday-school Convention having adjourned last evening. The introductory sermon was delivered by Rev. W. H. Pendleton of Los Angeles, his text being: "Beloved, while giving all diligence to write to you concerning the common salvation, I found it needful to write to you exhorting that ye contend earnestly for the faith delivered once for all to the saints." It was a splendid sermon.

T. N. Lord, C. E. Harris and C. W. Gregory were selected as a committee on devotional exercises. They recommended that the association adjourn at 12 o'clock and meet at 2 p.m. R. C. Freyer, Charles Button and George Elson were appointed a committee on reception of churches. The statistical report of the local church was read, as follows: Added by baptism, 5; by letter, 54; by experience, 1; total, 60. Diminished by letter, 15; death, 4; total, 19. Present membership, 161.

GOULD GREEN.
George Green, who was knocked down and robbed in Los Angeles of $400, worked for Wiley & Greeley. He had saved up the money during the past 15 months, intending to go to Seattle, Wash. He threw up his job and left for that place, but the beer of Los Angeles was too much for him. It will probably be some time before he reaches the metropolis of the Northwest.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.
William Butner of the Union meat-market had a narrow escape yesterday. It occurred while he was driving cattle on Orange Grove avenue. In trying to prevent some of them from leaving the road his horse slipped on the cement sidewalk, causing the animal to fall with Mr. Butner underneath, dislocating his kneecap and shaking him up pretty well. Dr. McAllister is in attendance, and thinks he will soon have the patient out again.

GENERAL NOTES.
Mrs. Smith, who was injured in a runaway, is improving slowly. The entertainment to be given by the young people of the Los Angeles Band of Hope next Friday evening at the Tabernacle will be very interesting. The Raymond excursion came in this morning with a large number of passengers.

Dr. Arthur, Dr. Rowland and Messrs. Post, Leader and Baggett have returned from a hunting expedition in the mountains of California. They have killed deer, antelope and small game, but did not see any bears.

J. M. Shawhan and J. W. Wood will try to tell how much they know of the tariff question next Wednesday evening at the Pickwick Club room, only two bits a head. It will be better than a circus, and a great deal cheaper. The former is a Democrat, the latter a Republican.

There was a very good audience at the tabernacle last night attending the Riggins concert.

The new baseball park will be opened next Saturday by a game between the Santa Ana boys and the local club. The grounds are all finished, and the game will be a very interesting one.

A party composed of Messrs. Fisher, Carter, Riggs, Patten, Graham and Messrs. Crandall, Judan, Riggs and Avery, took a moonlight ride on horseback last evening to San Gabriel. The trip was very enjoyable.

Rev. Mr. Ottman has accepted the call to the pulpit of the Episcopal Church in this city.

Our base-ball club may go to San Bernardino tomorrow and play the club of that place.

The Enforcement Committee decided today to allow the hotels to dispense liquors and wines to their guests, providing no flagrant violation of ordinance No. 125 occurs. They consider it a prohibition ordinance, but think the best interests of the city require allowing the hotels the above privilege.

PERSONAL.
A. F. Mills is very unwell. Miss Kate Kimball of Los Angeles is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Conger. Dan de Shield went to San Francisco this morning. Rev. W. H. Robinson and wife of Riverside are guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor. Mrs. Ottman has arrived. I. W. Lord of Lordsburg is in the city. Mrs. L. D. McLain has returned from Long Beach. Miss Grace Channing has returned home.

The rain which started yesterday has not yet dampened the courage of the constables and police who have arranged the baseball game for next Saturday. They say that if the rain stops by Friday the grounds will be in fine condition, as in that sandy soil the surplus moisture will soak away and the dust will be effectively laid, saving them the expense of sprinkling.

There is general complaint at the County Jail about parties stealing papers, especially THE TIMES. It is said that it is almost impossible to get a TIMES as the thief or thieves seem to have a partiality for this paper, and capture it at every opportunity, leaving the other papers behind. Jailor Russell says he intends to establish a watch, and the first man caught making away with the papers will be run in and prosecuted.

About 6 o'clock last evening a runaway horse ran into a street car on the corner of Seventh and Pearl streets and overturned the car. There was great consternation among the passengers, some of whom managed to jump off in good shape, but a lady and her little child were with the horse, and both were hurt, though it is thought not seriously. They declined to give their names, and proceeded at once to their home.

The man Green, who was brought to the police station early yesterday morning claiming to have been robbed of four one hundred dollar bills, over which the officers made a tour of the city in search of his wealth, was again at the station last night with another man who claims to have been Green with the money. The officers now believe that the man had the money, but got drunk and was rolled. He has no idea of the place where the occurrence took place.

A FULL JAIL.

Constables' Fees a Prolific Cause for Arrest.

There are at present 193 prisoners in the County Jail, the great majority of whom are tramps and loafers, who are serving sentences of from five to sixty days, and it is hardly probable that there will be any less than this until after the first of the year, when the new law goes into effect doing away with constables' fees for criminal work.

The deputies know this, and they are making hay while the sun shines, as it were. There are almost as many deputy constables in the city as there are policemen, and, as they get only what fees they can make, there has been a great deal of complaint about needless arrests by these officials. The Police Commissioners have several times considered the matter, and more than once it has been suggested that the attention of the Board of Supervisors be called to this business. It costs, at the very lowest figure, $5.45 for every arrest made by a constable or deputy, whether a conviction is had or not. Of this amount, $4.45 is paid to the constable and the justice of the Peace $1.00. If a conviction is had, the costs are somewhat increased, not counting the board of the prisoner if he is committed to jail, as is generally the case. It is probable that the Supervisors will take some action in the matter.
